

POWERFUL COALITION IS PUSHING TAX CUT

EXPECT BILL TO BE ENACTED INTO LAW BY NIGHT

FARM BLOC "OUT IN THE COLD" WITH ONLY FIFTEEN VOTES AGAINST PROPOSAL

SENATE WILL RETURN TO TARIFF BILL MONDAY; PROSPECTS OF ENACTMENT

Washington, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—Congress completed action today on the administration's $160,000,000 Christmas gift to the income taxpayers.

The resolution ordering a one percent slash along the line was adopted by the senate in exactly the same form in which it was adopted in the house last week.

As both houses stood together on the wording and substance of the resolution, it will be sent to the White House Monday for the signature of President Hoover which will make it law.

The senate's action came after two days of debate featured by a farm bloc revolt which failed to gain much headway because of the coalition of regular republicans and democrats.

Repeated efforts to amend the resolution in one form or another were voted down overwhelmingly before the new coalition majority.

Washington, Dec. 14.—A powerful new coalition was pushing the administration's $160,000,000 tax reduction bill through the senate today with such pressure it was expected to be enacted into law by night.

The regular republicans who have complained strangely against coalition since their tariff bill was revised by the senate, coalesced with the democrats to effect the adoption of the tax measure. The farm bloc which had a tariff coalition with democrats found itself out in the cold with only 15 votes or less to cast against the administration tax proposal.

Associated with the regulars in the new coalition was Joseph R. Grundy, new Pennsylvania senator and his colleague, David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, who denounced the farm bloc-democratic tariff coalition, terming the farm bloc members "worse than communists" for their action.

Although the weakened farm bloc was fighting to prevent a limitation of debate, the new coalition has such numerical strength that resistance seemed useless and a final vote is anticipated within a few hours. The group expects to protect the measure against any amendment, and it has more voting strength than the farm bloc-democratic coalition.

Monday the senate will return to the tariff bill with prospects of its enactment by mid-January. The senate privileges and elections committee has been called by Chairman Shorridge to meet Monday on the Grundy credentials and the resolution to it by the senate, proposing to deprive Grundy of his seat. The meeting is merely perfunctory and a speedy report in Grundy's favor is expected.

The house is working on the agricultural department supply bill, but will lay it aside Monday to take up the $135,000,000 public buildings bill, appropriating money for federal building projects throughout the country.

YOUTH FOUND DEAD OF GUNSHOT WOUNDS

St. Paul, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—Austin Southard, 20, Cambridge, Mass., a student at the University of Minnesota who came west for his health two years ago, was found dead of gunshot wounds in his bed here late Friday. A shotgun lay beside the bed. Southard was a nephew of H. W. Austin, Minnesota purchasing commissioner.

Prescott, Wis., Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Harry Barnes, homeward bound from a shopping tour in the Twin Cities on Friday the 13th, was "sitting on top of the world" when three highwaymen drew up beside his machine near Lakeville and robbed him of his load of Christmas presents, his automobile and $130.

SEARCHES FOR MARY SEVEN YEARS, FINDS HER NOT QUALIFIED

Milwaukee, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—Mary Anania, wife of Amastas Anania, was captured by the Turks during the world war. Amastas was grief stricken. For seven years he searched. In his own words, he "spent a lot of money." Then he found Mary. But Mary, he says, did not appreciate all he had done for her and she was a social and business handicap to him because she refused to learn English and would not go places and see things with him. Amastas' suit for divorce was on file in Judge Walter Schlinz's court today.

Newport, Ky., Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—It was bad enough when his wife insisted upon getting a divorce, but when her step-father refused to let him talk the matter over with her, John Gann, 40, shot and killed them both, police said he confessed last night. The bodies of Mrs. Catherine Gann and Richard Price, her step-father, were found at Charleston, W. Va. Gann was captured as he boarded a train.

NEW CLUES FOUND IN GUMMERSHEIMER MURDER MYSTERY

UNNAMED MADISON, WIS., WOMAN PROMISES IMPORTANT INFORMATION

CHICAGO BUSINESS MAN AND PROFESSOR OF GERMAN ARE RELEASED

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—New clues displaced old ones in the Cordelia E. Gummersheimer murder mystery today but its solution still awaited some master stroke of detective genius.

A woman, who promised "important information concerning the guilty man" in return for keeping her identity secret, communicated with authorities from Madison, Wis., they announced. Fear for her life had kept the unnamed woman silent thus far, investigators said.

Rockford officials interviewed her and revealed that an arrest was expected soon.

Miss Gummersheimer, pretty 35-year-old languages teacher in the Rockford high school was clubbed to death in her apartment here last Sunday. A length of gas pipe beside the bed on which her body was found indicated how the murder had been committed and an open window indicated how the slayer entered. But countless suspects, many of them men, have all proved alibis.

Another possibility holding the attention of the police was that a maniac, hatless and coatless, who attacked a young farm hand with a club, might have beaten Miss Gummersheimer to death.

A search of the wooded section near the lonely road where the attack occurred had been fruitless.

George Meredith, the farm hand, appeared at police headquarters, blood running from a gash in his forehead. He told how his assailant, "a light haired, powerfully built young fellow with a wild look in his eyes" had leaped onto the running board of his truck and struck him.

A $500 reward for information leading to the capture of the murderer was posted yesterday by Mayor J. H. Hallstrom and Chief of Police A. E. Balgren.

The names of Prof. Hugo Broeker, professor of German at Rice Institute, Houston, Texas, and R. B. Howe, Chicago business man, were eliminated in the investigation when it was learned they were only casual acquaintances of Miss Gummersheimer. Letters from them were found in her apartment.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—Romances that made pretty Cordelia E. Gummersheimer's life gay, hindered the investigation into her murder today by their multiplicity.

A "Professor Hugo" formerly an instructor in German at the University of Michigan and reported teaching in a Texas college, was added to the long list of her admirers. A letter from the professor, written in German, was found as authorities sorted through the hundreds of missives the 35-year-old head of the Rockford high school language department had received from scattered parts of the United States and Cuba.

Attempts had been made to communicate with the German as search continued for Ralph P. Howe, Chicago business man, whose name also came into the investigation through a letter to the teacher.

Meantime, 20 students and teachers from the high school appeared before State's Attorney W. D. Knight to tell what they knew of the life of Miss Gummersheimer. From some comment about a friend she might have made in a confidential moment, investigators hoped to extract a clue to the identity of the murderer who clubbed the teacher to death as she lay in bed in her apartment last Sunday.

The murder and the revelations that came afterward still held Rockford in suspense today. Students, as they walked to the high school had countless theories they were sure would solve the mystery. Townsfolk talked of little else. There was a growing feeling that desperate efforts should be pushed to apprehend the slayer.

The German instructor brought those questioned or sought for questioning because of their letters to five.

London Prepares for Onslaught of Flooded Thames; Barriers Are Being Strengthened

COUNTRYSIDE IS COUNTING DAMAGE OF RAIN AND GALES

WEATHER IN CHANNEL AND ALONG WESTERN COAST IS IMPROVING

STEAMSHIP ABA IS TOWED INTO QUEENSTOWN AFTER 6-DAY BATTLE WITH GALES

London, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—London prepared for the onslaught of the flooded river Thames today while the entire countryside of England counted its damage in thousands of homes wrecked and crops destroyed by floods from a week of rains and gales.

Although there still were isolated reports of ship disasters the weather in the channel and along the western coasts appeared to have improved.

Barriers were strengthened along a distance of 20 miles where the Thames passes from Hammersmith through the heart of London. Work crews were ordered to work night and day to prepare for the high tides expected to continue for four days beginning Monday morning.

A new concrete barrier was being constructed a quarter of a mile along the Chelsea embankment where only an iron railing separates the road from the river. Other sections were being bolstered with sandbags. The entire area was constantly under patrol of guards.

Flooding of London depends largely upon the spring tides from the North Sea which at present are full. No immediate rains were forecast and authorities were hopeful that the floods had reached their peak.

The Thames yesterday flowed through Teddington at a rate of 10,700,000 gallons per day compared to the rate of 10,000,000 gallons per day registered during the disastrous floods of January, 1928.

Floods were subsiding in West county, leaving a trail of havoc. Property damage was estimated at 1,500,000 pounds sterling ($7,500,000). Thousands of homes were destroyed. Unemployment was intensified by the damaging of many industrial plants by the floods which it was believed could not open for several weeks.

The steamship ABA arrived in Queenstown in tow after a six day battle to reach shore. During the entire time the steamer was within 150 miles of its goal but, rendered rudderless by the gale, was unable to manipulate its engines.

MAN ACCEPTS BEER FROM WOMAN, THEN HAS HER ARRESTED

Detroit, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—A man who accepted beer from a woman as a gift and then joined the police force and arrested her for selling liquor, was chided bitterly by Judge Donald Vanzile as he dismissed charges against the woman. The policeman, Officer John Tomczak, Mrs. Grace Curcua, 40, testified, was given three drinks of beer when he visited her home as an electrician. After he became a policeman he went back to her home, bought some beer on the strength of his former friendship and arrested her.

Mrs. Curcua said she didn't want to take money for the liquor, considering it merely as a friendly gift, but when the patrolman insisted, she allowed him to give her small change, two dimes, completing a "sale" and making the policeman's "case."

REICHSTAG BACKS HERMAN MUELLER

EXPRESS CONFIDENCE IN GOVERNMENT'S POLICIES AND SUPPORT FINANCIAL CUT

Berlin, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—By a vote of 222 to 156, the Reichstag supported a motion of confidence in the government of Chancellor Herman Mueller today, temporarily averting a crisis over the financial reform program which threatened to result in an overthrow of the government.

The expression of unqualified confidence in the government's general policies was the first section of a motion which included a compromise formula on the financial reform plan of Minister of Finance Dr. Rudolph Hilferding.

By supporting the government's motion for a vote of confidence the Reichstag approved the government's declaration for the necessity for financial reform although it did not approve the details of Hilferding's program.

SCHISM IN RANKS OF "BEER BLOC" IN HOUSE THREATENS

SPLIT CAUSED BY ATTEMPT TO ORGANIZE MILITANT ANTI-VOLSTEAD MOVEMENT

INVITATION TO ORGANIZE SENT TO ALL MEMBERS OF MODIFICATION COMMITTEE

By KENNETH G. CRAWFORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Dec. 14.—Schism in the ranks of the house "beer bloc" was threatened today.

An attempt by Representatives LaGuardia, New York, Schaefer, Wisconsin, and Englebright, California, all republicans, to organize a militant anti-Volstead movement in congress designed to week out the weak-hearted, has brought about the potential split.

Invitations were sent to all members of the modification committee explaining the purpose of the meeting was to organize only those who are militant in their opposition to the prohibition law.

Democrats immediately resented what they regarded as an implied slur at Chairman Lathrop of the unofficial committee, a Maryland democrat. Many of them said they would ignore the invitation. Lathrop himself addressed a letter to the three republican enthusiasts declining to attend their meeting and asking them to postpone it at least until the full committee holds a meeting.

LaGuardia indicated the republicans would go through with their meeting but probably would adjourn without adopting a definite program and wait to see what the full committee does at the meeting Lathrop promised to call. Then, if the trio are still dissatisfied, they may carry out their original plan.

OZARK MOUNTAIN MURDER BECOMES MORE PERPLEXING

CONNIE FRANKLIN, RETURNED FROM GRAVE, ACCUSED BY WITNESS AS IMPOSTER

THREAT OF FEUD REPRISAL GROWS AS FIVE MEN AWAIT TRIAL FOR SLAYING

By DUKE MERRITT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Mountain View, Ark., Dec. 14.—The fate of Connie Franklin remained the most baffling enigma of Ozark history today.

With less than 48 hours intervening before five men will go on trial on charges of murdering the illiterate mountain swain, it had not been determined beyond doubt whether the man who claims he is Franklin is an imposter, or whether the story of murder on a flaming brush pile told by Tiller Ruminer, 17-year-old hill girl, was a myth.

A few hours after Coleman Foster, who said he had known Connie Franklin well, denied the man he confronted yesterday was his friend, five O'Neil, Ark., residents stated positively that the "man from the grave" is Franklin.

A game of dice he had played with Connie Franklin was recalled by Lloyd Huff when he faced the mysterious "ghost" in the presence of defense and state's attorneys last night at O'Neil.

"Of course, he's Connie," said Huff. "We rolled the bones together in a crap game last January while Connie was working with the railroad section gang. I recollect making 'Little Joe' the hard way twice running. Didn't I Connie?"

The man who claims to be Franklin said, "You sure did."

Others at O'Neil who said they had known Franklin while he was working near there before going to the St. James community where the supposed murder was said to have been committed last March 9 were: Ed O'Neal and his wife, Hook Huff and Z. X. Satolee.

All stoutly maintained there could be no doubt about it, that Connie Franklin was there in front of them, alive and looking just as he had when they knew him.

The identification, apparently sincere, threw the case back into the maze of mystery that had prevailed before Coleman Foster confronted "Franklin" in a dramatic scene between John Fulks' log cabin and Stanley Younger's woodpile.

There, while a ring of bearded woodsmen and attorneys closed around them, Foster, who had returned to the community a few days ago from Oklahoma, denied he had ever seen the man who claims to be Franklin.

"No, this ain't Connie," Foster said. "There ain't nothin' hardly about the man that's like my old buddy. He's somebody else."

Then, as ominous stares of the hill men were leveled at him, Foster edged out of the circle.

"Let's get out of here," he said. "I'm sorta afraid of 'Crick' Greenway."

S. H. Greenway, John Fulks and Stanley Younger, members of the group, are relatives of the five men accused of seizing Connie Franklin while he was walking with Tiller Ruminer to get a marriage license and of beating him and burning him to death on a woodpile.

Foster later declared Franklin had a mole on his neck, a crooked toe on his right foot, light hair and blue eyes. The man he confronted has dark hair streaked with gray and the other distinguishing marks were missing.

"I don't know what's got into Foster," said the man of mystery. "He's double crossing me. He knows I'm Franklin all right."

Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Williamson declared he was convinced that the "stranger" is an imposter and said the five accused mountaineers would be prosecuted vigorously when the trial opens Monday.

Meanwhile the dispute over Connie Franklin's fate spread over the Blue Mountain range, up and down the placid White river and up the wooded hollows to the headwater springs that feed Roaring river—everywhere in this primitive land when men live and

BRIAND OPPOSED TO REQUEST, SEEING IN IT BUILDING RACE

DEADLOCK WILL PREVENT FURTHER PROGRESS BEFORE 5-POWER CONFERENCE

APPOINTMENT OF CASTLE AS U. S. AMBASSADOR TO JAPAN AROUSES DISQUIETUDE

By STEWART BROWN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Dec. 14.—Preliminary Franco-Italian naval conversations have reached a deadlock which developments to date indicate will prevent any further progress before the convening of the five-power conference in London in January.

The deadlock in the conversations between Foreign Minister Aristide Briand and the Italian Ambassador Gaetanomanzoni occurred after the latter submitted Premier Benito Mussolini's note demanding naval parity with France for Italy.

Minister Briand, after a series of conferences with Premier Andre Tardieu and a more recent conference with the French ambassador to Italy, Maurice Beaumarchais, replied to Mussolini's note, completely ignoring Italy's parity demand, pointing out instead the necessity for the two nations to treat the naval disarmament problem in relation to their special needs, implying that if Italy secured parity with France, a building race would ensue.

Italy, as yet, has not replied to Briand's note. It was noteworthy that Briand called into conference Ambassador Beaumarchais and explained to him the situation in order that the ambassador at Rome might be in a better position to deal with the difficult situation created by the failure of the preliminary negotiations through which it had been hoped the two nations could reach an agreement expediting the work of the London conference.

France still is hopeful that Japan will continue her announced opposition to the desire of Great Britain and the United States to abolish the submarine as an arm of defense inasmuch as Italy, since the Armistice Day speech to President Hoover at Washington, appears to have altered her earlier stand against abolition to one in favor of either reduction or complete abolition of the undersea craft, retention of which France insists upon.

President Hoover's appointment of William R. Castle, Jr., as American ambassador extraordinary to Japan has aroused a certain disquietude in some quarters here through a fear that the United States may attempt to swing Japan towards abolition of the submarine, leaving France to stand alone for retention at the London conference. Although the government has not completed its preparations for the conference, the press continues to hammer home the statements that France must be left free by the other powers to determine her own coastal and colonial needs and that instead of a reduction in cruisers and submarines should build up her navy proportionately to that of Britain and the United States.

CHRISTMAS BUYING VOLUME HEAVIER

Washington, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—Christmas buying throughout the nation this year is somewhat heavier in volume than last year, President Hoover has been advised by the commerce department and other government agencies. The president is understood to be pleased with indications he has found that the average volume of sales is being well maintained.

AVIATORS INJURED IN MID-AIR COLLISION

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—Two student aviators were seriously injured today when their planes crashed after colliding in mid-air near Logan field.

A wing of one plane struck that of the other.

think and talk after century-old fashions.

The threat of feud violence, ominous since Tiller Ruminer told her story after supposedly creeping mute for months under the fear of reprisal, hung above this hamlet of 500 inhabitants and rumbled in the cabins back in the hills.

Many believed the mystery would not be solved until the drama of romance and feud violence opens in the stone court house here, and others maintained it never will be solved.

Heroic Crew of S. S. Republic Save Fishermen from Raging Seas

hard drinking through his playful habit of shooting up the town. Despite himself he falls in love with a beautiful Eastern girl.
His employer counts on him to win the big rodeo sweepstakes race for his

A New Door needed in the Back Porch

The Back Door looks a little neglected, doesn't it? For one thing, the screen has rusted and fallen away up spots. Doesn't keep the flies out. And the delivery boys and the ice men have soiled the woodwork. It does look messy. It isn't much of a job to put in new netting and to paint the main door and the frame of the other. Let's get busy. CHIEF JUSTICE MAY ENTER RACE FOR GOVERNOR

RUMORS HAVE IT THAT SAMUEL B. WILSON WILL SEEK REPUBLICAN NOMINATION

TERM EXPIRES ON SUPREME COURT NEXT YEAR; CREDENCE GIVEN TO REPORTS

St. Paul, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—Samuel B. Wilson, chief justice of the Minnesota supreme court, may resign early next year to enter the campaign for the republican nomination for governor, it was widely rumored at the state capitol today.

The name of Wilson, whose term does not expire until next year, has been prominently mentioned recently as a possible gubernatorial candidate but not until today were the reports given much credence.

"I have nothing to say at present," the justice was quoted as having said, "let's wait and see what develops."

NOEL C. WHITE BEATEN TO DEATH

STATE DEMOCRATIC LEADER IN MISSISSIPPI WAYLAIN NEAR HIS HOME

Lexington, Miss., Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—Noel C. White, state democratic executive committee chairman was found shot and beaten to death in a ditch near his home six miles south of here today.

White had been shot once through the heart and had been severely beaten. Officers said they believed he was the victim of an assassin, whose motive may have been partly robbery. Officers hastily organized a posse of citizens and took the search for the slayers. A group of negroes seen near the White home earlier in the day was sought.

The democratic leader's body was found at the bottom of a ditch a hundred yards from his home by members of his family. His pockets had been rifled and his watch was missing. White had for many years been prominent in democratic work in Mississippi and had been democratic state chairman for five years. He was also chancery clerk of Holmes county.

The Pastor Says:
Many women do not drive cars, but all give lessons in driving. "Preparation for death" often means that when Father Time has his sickle in a harvest of wild oats, they may be transformed into good grain by pronouncing an incantation over them.—John Andrew Holmes.

WHY Investors and Savers Everywhere are Turning to BUILDING and LOAN

Figures recently made public reveal some interesting facts about building and loan associations. During the year 1928 the resources of the 12,666 associations in the U. S. increased $837,471,876 to bring the combined resources to the impressive total of more than EIGHT BILLION dollars. 659,644 new investors joined building and loan or an average of 2,200 EVERY BUSINESS DAY. The total membership now exceeds twelve million or one of every 12 of the nation's entire population. Last year the associations loaned $751,305,735 on homes. The number of homes financed PER DAY averaged about 1,000.

Statistics for the past nine years reveal the remarkable fact that this vast business has been carried on with an average annual loss of only 6-1000 (.006) of 1% of total resources. On this record it would take 166 years to lose 1%.

Is it any wonder that people everywhere are turning to building and loan? Is it not perfectly natural that the resources of the Twin City Building and Loan Association should increase a MILLION DOLLARS IN 10 MONTHS? Isn't it natural that the wise investor prefers our shares on which we have regularly paid 7% dividends and in which either large or small sums may be invested? Also, withdrawals have always been paid without notice. No need to hunt for a market; no need to worry over falling values, for our shares do not fluctuate. They are always worth DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR for they are strictly non-speculative.

Let us send you our beautiful 28-page illustrated booklet "Investing and Saving for Safety and Profit" which tells the whole fascinating story about building and loan. Just say: "Send booklet 'C,'" or pin this advertisement to your card or letter-head.

Charter Should Be More Elastic

The Brainerd charter made in the horse and buggy days, appears to have reached a point where its provisions in some instances are retarding growth of the city in some directions.

In the days of macadam paving, holes were readily fixed with a load of crushed rock. Cement has succeeded the macadam and that just typifies the various changes occurring.

We find a Park Board hampered by its small appropriations for maintenance of the three parks, Tourist, Gregory and Lum. The Tourist park was established by a Chamber of Commerce campaign and is now virtually self-sustaining. Lum park seeks to pay its way in every manner possible. The tax levy is kept low and park maintenance is a problem.

Now comes our program of winter sports and the method in every other city is to make this winter program a part of park board work. It cannot be done this year, but the movement has started to make it the program for coming years, a part of the city's official work.

It may be necessary to increase taxation, to have the charter altered to accommodate the growing size of the city.

The water and light board needs charter changes to facilitate taking care of bond issues, permitting accumulation of a sinking fund for such purpose.

The library is crowded. Every book is utilized. The covers bear witness to that fact. The library may have to be increased in size which would involve the acquisition of more property, but no money can be accumulated under the present system of operation. Every cent is used in operation and little if any can be saved to apply to a building extension work.

The charter clothes are pinching the wearer in many directions. If all the different wants expressed in Brainerd are to be satisfied, then the city must raise more money by taxation, so that the burden can be equalized and that public donations for city work should be succeeded by the city doing what individuals have done for it in times past.

It is quite a problem and one of importance to engage the attention of all interested in city welfare.

A Constructive Program

ABOUT three million American farmers, or nearly thirty-nine per cent of all the farmers in this country, cultivate land that they do not own. In other words they are tenant farmers.

Until recent years that was a problem that did not concern the Northwest. Most of the tenant operators were in the older states where land had been settled for years and had risen in price to a point where it was difficult, if not impossible, for a man without considerable capital to buy it.

That is true no longer. In the older sections of Minnesota and even the Dakotas, there are now thousands of tenants who are farming leased land, and their number is said to be increasing so rapidly that an organized effort is about to be made to check it.

As shown by the Northwest Magazine, the Greater North Dakota Association seems to be the first to initiate the movement. Composed of a large number of business and professional men in all parts of the state, its officers recently announced that they had developed a plan which they believe will transform many tenants into owners.

The promoters of the scheme believe that it will not only help tenants as well as others who want to buy land, but will tend to stimulate better farming methods by tenants who, under the old system of short leases, had little interest or incentive in making improvements.

It looks as if the Greater North Dakota Association had hit upon a constructive solution of a serious problem.

Aiding Little Children

ATTENTION is called to the appeal of the Golden Rule Foundation as published in Saturday's Dispatch for the observance of Golden Rule Sunday, December 8.

If there are those of Brainerd or surrounding vicinity who failed to comply with the request to substitute for their regular Sunday dinner a very simple meal and give at least the difference in cost to needy children, will they kindly choose their own day for this observance and leave their gift with F. A. Farrar, First National Bank, who will send all amounts to J. A. Jackman, National Director of the Golden Rule Foundation.

May we not forget that in China children have been abandoned or killed to keep them from dying of slow starvation, while from Porto Rico, under our own flag, comes a heart-breaking appeal from Governor Theodore Roosevelt, who states that thousands of school children have only one small meal a day. These future American citizens, we are told, are suffering more than any other children under the American flag.

May we also consider the message of divine truth: "But whose hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him."

More Yuletide Decorations

Now that the main business section of Brainerd is beautifully decorated for the coming Christmas season, have we neglected anything? Well, we have, if we are to be judged by other cities.

That is, the decoration of our homes. It is not too early to have our homes reflect the spirit of Christmas greeting. By doing that we will have every part of Brainerd giving a glad welcome to Yuletide.

USING the abbreviation Xmas for Christmas has never appealed to us. The word Christmas means something and its substitute, ill-chosen, can never gain the message carried by Christmas. It takes as long to speak one word as the other and in type-setting but a few letters are omitted by setting the algebraic looking Xmas, which does seem to signify an unknown quantity.

THIS year will find many Santa Clauses in evidence and the annual warning is sounded to ward off fire danger. Inflammable whisks, insecure tree lighting, curtains near the tree, etc., are to be guarded against.

Are All Politics Rotten?

The Smiths, father and son were seated in their usual after-dinner corners. Bob at his books and father with his trade journal, magazines and papers.

"Dad, I'm going to be a lawyer after all," Bob's opening shot!

"So," replied dad, laconically.

"I was going in for public life—possibly be a senator," said Bob, seriously, "but I've about come to the conclusion it is not desirable after all. Dad, are politics rotten?"

"Been reading the papers a bit eh, Bob?" queried dad. "Well, I can hardly blame you for coming to such a conclusion with all the graft and scandal in high places, yet, Bob, the law is a very highly respected profession and just because here and there, now and then, a man high in public office sells his birthright for a mess of pottage you must not conclude that all of our vast army of public officials are crooks, by any means. America is what she is today as a nation, largely because of her type of government; a type of government which makes possible tremendous initiative on the part of officials, plus the fact that we still have vast natural resources easily exploited and wealth is so comparatively easily attainable by fair means or foul.

"Remember how we all enjoyed the box of salted nuts the other evening. They were unusually fine until you bit into a rancid one and then you didn't want any more. It would have been too bad to have concluded that you would never eat salted nuts again because of one bad one to a box.

"Let's go a little further, Bob. The strength of American life is the quality of its citizenry. Most men are honorable and honest. Of the probably more than one hundred thousand public officials, a large part of the leaders of which have a legal training, there is a very small per cent but that have rendered their day and time and constituency thoroughgoing honorable service, many, at large personal sacrifice. Here I was just now reading a splendid quotation from Roosevelt that has an exact bearing on the point.

"In our history there is now practically no mention of any great financier, of any great business man, who merely made money for himself. If at some crisis in the nation's history that financier rendered a great national service, or if he identified himself in useful fashion with some great movement for good, whether in art or philanthropy or otherwise, then his name remains. But even under these conditions it remains as a secondary value. America's contribution to permanent world history has been made by the statesmen and soldiers whose devotion to the country equalled their efficiency, by men of science, men of art, men of letters, by sane and honest reformers and social workers, who did great work and treated that work as in itself a great reward."

"The history of our growth and development as a nation is largely the story of the lives of high-minded men who have devoted themselves to the service of their fellows in some one of the thousand ramifications of our public life.

"True it is, my boy, that we have an oversupply of 'small fry' in the legal profession, but it is also true in the other professions. Human nature is no different in politics than in business or medicine or the other sciences.

"Some one has told us that the real value of great lives is to fertilize the imaginations of our youth. When you think politics, think of the great game that Washington played with his Continental congress; think of the great game that Lincoln played with millions of human lives at stake. Think of the great and fascinating game that Herbert Hoover played to feed the starving children of the world. Do not let your ideals and conclusions be reached by dwelling too much on the petty graft and mistakes of the greedy and overly ambitious few."

"True American citizenship means loyal service to God and country. Boys of sterling quality must be trained to enter politics—yes, to become fighting politicians; live-wire citizens who do their share of the public work, and Bob, you don't need to wait until you are a senator. Be a good straight-shooting, hard-hitting politician in school; in your club; in your camp; yes, in your gang."

"We must recognize that there are defects in our land and weaknesses in our systems; that our plan of things is not perfect; that all our institutions can be bettered; and that only by preparation and co-operation to make America the great democracy where there is less and less fear, more and more confidence in each other and a united hope for even better things, will a new day come."

"Good and bad politics, Bob, bring up another point, too, that it is well to consider. Good politics is simply loyalty. Everybody likes the fellow who stands up for his family and his school, his friends, his team, and his country—all of that is not so hard to do."

McLARNIN WINS OVER GOLDSTEIN BY K. O. IN SECOND

STAMPS WINNER AS DANGEROUS MAN FOR WORLD CROWN

"BABY-FACED" IRISHMAN PUMMELS PRIDE OF NEW YORK'S EAST SIDE IN BRIEF BATTLE

JACKIE FIELDS TOSSED OUT OF RING FOR POOR SHOWING AGAINST GORILLA

By FRANK GETTY

(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver, B. C., stood out today as a truly dangerous contender for the welterweight championship of the world, after his decisive knockout victory over Ruby Goldstein of New York in Madison Square Garden last night.

McLarnin flattened Goldstein after 52 seconds of fighting in the second round, having previously twice sent his opponent to the floor.

With Jackie Fields, present holder of the 147-pound title, tossed out of the ring for poor showing against Gorilla Jones up in Boston last night, McLarnin looms as a real threat for titular honors.

The little "baby-faced" Irishman had everything necessary to defeat Goldstein, including two ready fists which quickly pummeled the pride of New York's East Side into submission. Goldstein was recorded one of the greatest ovations ever given a fighter in a New York ring when he crawled through the ropes, but the cheers turned to jeers as Ruby wilted under the two-fisted attack of his eager opponent.

The New Yorker, weighing 141½, had half a pound advantage in weight. McLarnin quickly demonstrated that he was Goldstein's master, forcing the fighting and winning the first round by a wide margin. Towards the end of the opening session, Ruby went down for a count of four, seemingly without having taken a really hard punch.

The second and decisive round did not last long. McLarnin came out confidently, and after maneuvering Goldstein into position, shot over a right which dropped Ruby through the ropes. The chances are that Goldstein never would have come back into the ring had he not been shoved.

As it was, McLarnin swarmed all over him with both hands faying head and body, and a right to the jaw finally sent the New Yorker down for the long count.

The paid attendance was 18,608. Receipts of $106,992.36 and net receipts of $87,760.81.

BOUT PREVIOUSLY ARRANGED BETWEEN HACK AND SHIRES

CUBS OUTFIELDER OFFERED A PURSE OF $10,000 AND $1,000 FOR TRAINING

CUBS HEAD REFUSES TO NAME PUNISHMENT IF OUTFIELDER DEFIES ORDER

Chicago, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—The management of the Chicago Cubs today forbade its star outfielder, Hack Wilson, to fight Arthur (The Great) Shires, White Sox first baseman and pugilist, next month for the heavy-weight championship of the Chicago diamonds and sundry thousands of dollars.

President William L. Veck of the Cubs refused to predict what would happen to Wilson if he should defy the order and mix with Shires anyway.

By BERT DEMBY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—There will be several things new under the sun when Arthur (The Great) Shires, White Sox first baseman meets Lewis R. "Hack" Wilson Cubs outfielder here next month to determine the pugilistic world's series.

Both fighters will appear in dress suits before the show and autograph programs for their admirers.

Babe Ruth may act as referee. And Promoter Jimmy Mullen, proverbial hard-luck boy of the profession, may line his pockets with a goodly sum.

The battle is expected to determine the boxing supremacy of the two baseball clubs and will bring into the open many fans whose pocketbooks usually remain untapped after the world series.

The fight already has set one record—that for a purse offered an athlete who never has fought a professional ring battle. Hack is to get $10,000 and $1,000 training expenses. Shires will work on a percentage basis.

Arthur, in addition to a couple of decisions over Lena Blackburn, erstwhile manager of the White Sox, last Monday won a professional encounter here from Dan Daly, a mysterious fighter from Cleveland. Daly was put down and out in 11 seconds.

Wilson is like Shires in that he has obtained considerable notoriety from impromptu bouts. In 1928 he invaded a box in Wrigley field and slapped down Edward Young, a milk wagon driver, whose caustic remarks irritated him. Last year Hack entered the dugout of the Cincinnati Reds and took a swing at Pitcher Ray Kopp. Later in the day he flattened Pete Donohue, another Red hurler.

From one home at Martinsburg, W. Va., Wilson announced that he was going to get some of the best fighters in the east to lick him into shape for the contest.

"I haven't thought up any mean things to say about Shires yet," he added.

"The Great" Art, also known as Kid Braggio and Whataman, wasn't so tactful.

"Hack will lose sight of my gloves just like he lost sight of the ball in the world series," he said. "But instead of the sun he'll be seeing stars."

Rumor had it that Wilson might be a tough customer in the ring. He weighs around 190, the same as Shires, and was said to be under the care of his friend, Tommy Loughran.

Only one thing will prevent the fight drawing a gate of $100,000, according to Promoter Mullen. That is the defeat of Shires by George Trafton of the Chicago Bears football team whom he meets Monday night.

But Shires had no misgivings on this account.

"George will die of fright when I climb into the ring," he said.

The West Wins Again

By HARDIN BURNLEY

ONCE MORE THE WEST HOLDS THE EDGE OVER EASTERN TEAMS IN THE INTERSECTIONAL GAMES.

Russ Crane—WHOSE ILLINOIS ELEVEN SCORED ONE FOR THE WEST BY BEATING ARMY...

Benny Lom—WHO HELPED CALIFORNIA UPHOLD WESTERN HONORS AGAINST PENN..

NOW FOR CARNEGIE AND SO. CALIFORNIA

THE SPORT BUG

WISCONSIN beat Colgate; California, Penn.; Chicago, Princeton; Michigan, Harvard; Illinois, Army; and so on—it just can't be an infinitum! This season, as well as last, the big Western football teams simply mastered nearly every Eastern team they played. The East doesn't play an offside game by any means, yet its best teams have been beaten regularly by manifestly better eleven from the Far or Middle West.

True it is, that an Eastern all-star outfit managed to defeat its Western rival in a big charity game on the Pacific Coast last Winter, but that seemed to be just about as insignificant as all the "all-star" events are.

If Pitt goes to California the East will lay everything salvaged from the recent Grizzly Market on the Panthers to tear the hide off anything the West tosses into the Rose Bowl.

Some enthusiastic Easterners also claim Notre Dame as their own, though South Bend, Ind., decidedly is in the Middle West. And those same enthusiasts hailed Notre Dame's defeat of Southern California as an Eastern victory!

Perhaps they may be right if the Mississippi River is a fair dividing line between East and West football talent. In that case, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, etc., would be classified as Eastern teams—which does seem strange!

If the Appalachian Mountains are a natural boundary between East and Middle West, it must be conceded that Pittsburgh on the frontier and Colgate in northern New York seem to be the only two teams that might cope successfully with such Western machines as Stanford, California, Southern California, St. Mary's, Minnesota, Iowa or even Utah.

The West, in either its middle or far sectors, seems to have a gradually increasing edge on the East for several seasons. But, as they might say at Harvard: "That difference may be more apparent than real, you know!"

Baseball Moguls Meet for Business

RUTH—A BRILLIANT DEFENCE MAN..

NOW that our cities have brought the outdoors indoors by building refrigerated rinks, hockey is establishing itself more popularly than ever as America's great Winter sport. A strenuous game for you, at full of spectacular action—speedy and thrilling in every particular! To play big league hockey, even the less agile players must be whizzed on skates and know how to handle the stick in hard-bitten physical combat. Its body-checking details are as muscle-jarring and as important as the technique of good line play and "take-out" assignments in football. The game is far faster and fully as rough as gridiron embroglio.

Cigarette Smoking

Bob came down to breakfast late and obviously a bit out of sorts. Mother looked at Dad and Dad looked at mother, as much as to say, "What's wrong now?"

"Bob, your clothes smell mighty smokey this morning," said mother, good naturedly. "Thought you went to a party, not to a smoker, last night."

"All one, and the same thing now," said Bob. "And take it from me, its heck to be the only different guy at the show. I'm keeping my promise to you, but, say, do you really think it was fair to exact that promise from me just because I've always made good on my agreements with you. Honestly, I'd rather stay home than be the only dude present every time, who has promised his mamma."

There was just a bit of sarcasm in the boy's tone in spite of himself.

Father Smithhough scowled noticeably. "My boy, I'm sure mother will release you from that promise now. Such promises are necessary and desirable with children who cannot think or reason for themselves. They are not desirable for young men of your age. I know exactly what the social pressure is. I've been through it myself, my boy, and after I faced it squarely and thought the thing through for myself, I stuck by my promise, only from then on it was to myself. Now, I thoroughly enjoy being different. Why join the herd? Why, if I'd let my conduct be determined by what 'everybody's doing,' you'd be ashamed to own me as dad."

"Oh, I know, Dad, but you're a Puritan. You would like to be different just as you always enjoy being the minority, but its so deucedly uncomfortable and makes you so conspicuous. Even the girls make fun of me. I'm no angel-child, and I hate to pose as one. I can't for the life of me see why it is all right for men to smoke cigarettes, but that it is terribly bad for boys."

"Bob," said Dad, with a good-natured smile, "the most difficult aspect of the whole question of conduct is this matter of conformity. Life seems organized to reduce itself to the commonplace. The cigarette has become social custom. Men of prominence on every hand, and women, too, as you well know, have accepted the edict just the same as they do fashions in clothes and fashions in speech and fashions in reading, and one of the great questions of the day really is, is it right for adults who are truly interested in youth to do anything that youth may not copy, for we know that a large part of a boy's essential education comes from imitating."

"Now, son, because I fully realized that we must sometime face this question again, and because I knew of your great admiration for the coaching ability and reputation of Gilmore Dobie, who for eleven years never lost a game, I clipped this from a paper sometime ago and slipped it into my card case."

"Probably Gilmore Dobie knows a good deal about what makes a boy strong and alert, and what causes him to be a failure. This is the special message he sends to you: 'It has been my experience that the use of tobacco, more particularly cigarettes, by boys under the age of twenty-one, is especially detrimental. I think there are two special reasons why tobacco should not be used by growing boys. First, tobacco is much more detrimental to the youth than the adult. It has a greater influence over the physical and mental activities of the boy, at the time in life when the resources of the mental and physical powers are taxed by the growth and general expansion, and cannot so well withstand the additional impediment of taking care of poisons and the derangement of the nervous system resulting from the smoking habit. Invariably this is evidenced by lack of youthful bloom, mental alertness and physical efficiency. Second, I find it almost invariably the rule that the smoking habit, when formed in early youth, takes a much more powerful hold on its victim and gradually increases its influence until finally it has created an inveterate smoker. Every boy who is ambitious to reach and retain the highest degree of physical and mental manhood, can, to a great extent, insure himself by abstaining from the use of tobacco in his early life.'"

"Now, so much for that. My second reason is even more fundamental. My greatest objection to the cigarette is that it is typical of a whole range of personal indulgences. What were we saying the other day about citizenship and loyalties? The greatest loyalty in the world is loyalty to the best that's in you. Smoking cigarettes is a compromise with yourself on what you know is not the best that's in you, and it is the entering wedge of personal indulgence."

"From this morning on, Bob, you are free. No promise binds you. You are a big intelligent boy. If you can't think and reason now, you never will."

"And now its harder than ever," said Bob with a gulp, "but I'll think it through. Mother, you burn up the batch that are in my overcoat pocket, will you?"

Lindsey Disbarment Grows Out of Stokes Settlement

Judge Ben Lindsey, famous Denver jurist, and father of the "companionate marriage" idea, was disbarred from law practice in Colorado, as an aftermath of the famous Stokes fight waged by Helen Elwood Stokes for recognition of her children in the will of W. E. D. Stokes. (Upper) Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, Judge Ben Lindsey. (Lower) W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire hotel owner and New York realtor. The children of Mrs. Helen Stokes, about whom the fight circled. Samuel Untermyer, well-known New York lawyer, and counsel for Mrs. Stokes, who gave Judge Lindsey $10,000 as a gift for his services in the famous case.

International Newsreel

CAN a gift to reward legal services be construed as a fee? In the opinion of the Supreme Court of the State of Colorado, a gift of money is tantamount to a fee, and because of this opinion, former Judge Lindsey of the Denver Juvenile Court is disbarred from pursuing the practice of law in the State henceforth. The charge against the famous judge is that of "professional misconduct."

When Helen Elwood Stokes brought her action for recognition of her children as heirs in the will of her husband, W. E. D. Stokes, he had transferred his wealth to his son, W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., thus disinheriting his minor children, Muriel and James. Lindsey had previously appointed Mrs. Stokes as legal guardian of the children after the Stokes' matrimonial ship had gone on the rocks, and they were also held as the wards of his court. The attorney general of Colorado charges that Mrs. Stokes sought the aid and counsel of Lindsey in her probate action, and that in according such aid and counsel, the judge, as he was at the time holding office, acted contrary to the ethics of his office. The services of Samuel Untermyer, noted New York lawyer, were secured by Judge Lindsey, it was charged, and the State court was told that he also participated in the negotiations conducted by Untermyer that resulted in a compromise settlement which gave the two children of Mrs. Stokes, approximately $3,000,000.

International Newsreel

For this service, in which he claims that he acted merely as a friend of Mrs. Stokes, the noted jurist received a voluntary gift of $37,000 from her, and, according to Mr. Untermyer, Lindsey also received $10,000 from the fee of the famous lawyer, making a total of $47,000 for his good offices.

Judge Lindsey stoutly and indignantly maintains that his conduct throughout the Stokes case was entirely disassociated with his duties as a judge, and that at all times he merely acted as arbitrator and mediator to aid his friend, Mrs. Stokes, without thought of reward or gain thereby. And Samuel Untermyer thinks that "a gross injustice appears to have been done to Judge Lindsey."

Death for Selling Tobacco

China was introduced to tobacco early in the Seventeenth century, but it was not long before its use was prohibited by imperial edict and decapitation prescribed as a penalty for anyone who clandestinely hawked it, writes Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology at Field Museum of Natural History.

The edict proved unenforceable and soon was rescinded, because of the general disregard accorded it by nobles and commoners alike, and because tobacco had been adopted as a remedy for colds in the army, unexcelled by any other remedy with which the Chinese then were acquainted.—Detroit News.

For Boyish Uplift

The Catholic Boys' Brigade of the United States is a nationwide union of individual branches guided by national and regional headquarters in doing preventive work among all types of boys by means of organized recreation and modern social work. Although operated by Catholics, according to its own principles, it is not sectarian in its social work.—Washington Star.

Master of the Angels

There was once a sculptor who lived so long ago that every one has forgotten his name, but he would not mind, for artists and critics have given him a new one; he is the Master of the Angels. He had a magic gift for turning dead stone into gracious faces and fluttering wings, and critics say his angels are different from all others.

The angels in the central and southern doorways of the west portal of Chartres cathedral, which dates from the middle of the Twelfth century, are said to be his work.

Uselessness of Worry

Worry will put more lines in a human countenance than work will ever etch. It's the most useless mental exercise we engage in; the greatest wear on our finely attuned brains. And it's downright waste of human energy.—Grit.

Originator of Income Tax

It is a curious fact that income tax was "invented" by an Oxford don, Dr. Henry Beeke, a fellow of Oriel college, who afterwards became dean of Bristol. Beeke was professor of modern history at Oxford, though his real forte was finance, and he frequently assisted Vansittart with the budget during that statesman's long tenure of the chancellorship of the exchequer. Disgruntled taxpayers will learn with grim satisfaction that Doctor Beeke came to a sad end. 20 FIREMEN FIGHT FIRE

Damage Estimated Over $1,500;
Neighbors Give Family Shelter
From Sub Zero Cold

Members of the William Rich family, father, mother and two children aged six and three years, were forced out of their beds and into the sub zero weather in night clothes early this morning when flames swept through their house at 814 19th street S. E.

Twenty firemen of the Brainerd fire department fought the fire, getting it under control at 10 a. m. two hours after the fire broke out from an overheated stove.

Neighbors gave the family shelter and clothing. Damage in excess of $1,500 was done, it was reported.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

December 13, 1904

The grand spectacular carnival given at the Brainerd opera house last night by the direction of Carroll E. Johnson and under the auspices of the First Congregational church, was quite largely attended and thoroughly enjoyed by all. The carnival opened with a representation drill given by 28 young ladies. That many of the Brainerd merchants were represented with appropriate costumes. The electric lady appeared next representing the Goddess of Liberty. The next was a hunting scene. The crowning feature was 32 little girls who appeared in Delsarte. Next came the second representation drill in which 40 young ladies appeared. The show will be given again this evening.

The Young Men's Debating club met last evening at the Y. M. C. A. A good program was rendered before the debate, the subject of which was "Resolved, that Co-education in Colleges is Desirable." The judges were W. J. Smith, C. K. Davis and Robert Johnson and their decision was in favor of the affirmative.

Joe J. Howe returned today from Minneapolis. Mr. Howe has been confined in a hospital for some time, having poisoned his face with the collar of his coat.

F. C. Bolin is home from Duluth where he has been looking after his logging operations for some time.

Charles Hazen who has been visiting in the city for a day or two, returned to Duluth this afternoon.

Attorney Lindbergh of Little Falls arrived in the city today on legal business.

J. M. Quinn left for the north this afternoon.

Last night a fire alarm was turned in from the Pat O'Connor home on South Seventh street. Fire started in a sink in the kitchen. A lamp had been placed there to thaw out a pipe and in some manner this set fire to the wood work. About $200 damage was done to the house and about the same to the furniture.

December 14, 1904

C. T. Gleason, the blind piano tuner, who makes Brainerd regularly and is well known in this city, was quite seriously injured in St. Paul by falling through an open grate while walking along the sidewalk, guiding himself with a cane. The St. Paul paper states that he was quite seriously bruised about the head and body.

Neil McKay, custodian of the government dam at Pine River was in the city this morning. Mr. McKay suggested that a little snow would be acceptable up in his neighborhood but stated that it would take about three feet to make sleighing on the road between Cross Lake and Brainerd.

Drs. Groves and Nicholson are getting ready to move to their new location in the Walverman block.

Henry I. Cohen is having his offices in the Sleeper block renovated and rearranged.

Commencing Thursday an additional carrier will be put on at the post office for 15 days to help out during the heavy business incident to the holiday season.

There was a daring bank robbery at Rice, the first station on the N. P. beyond Royall last night and from what is known of the whole thing it is believed that those who participated in it were professionals of the most dangerous nature. They pried open a car door to gain entrance and then dynamited the outer door of the safe and also the inside door. They got away with $12,000 in cash and from $10,000 to $12,000 worth of notes and other valuable paper.

THEATRE PLANS PLEASE PUBLIC

Enthusiasm is Shown by Entire City
Toward New Playhouse

That the entire city is enthused over the fact of the coming opening of the new Paramount theatre, one of the great chain of Publix theatres, is indicated by the daily visits of local and out-of-town people to the site of the theatre.

Representatives of the Western Electric Company have been in town all last week preparing for the installation of the costly Vitaphone and Movietone equipment. They state that this will be one of the finest installations in this part of the country, and the apparatus which will be placed in the Paramount theatre will be equal in tone production to that now in the large Paramount theatre in New York.

De Luxe seats have arrived for immediate installation in the Paramount. They were manufactured by the Haywood-Wakefield Manufacturing Co., well-known manufacturers of De Luxe theatre seats. These seats are of the highest grade that could be purchased.

Ed. Prinsen, district manager for the Minnesota Publix theatres, is now in the city and is greatly pleased over the attitude of the public toward the opening of the Paramount theatre. Mr. Prinsen stated that it was the plan of the Publix Theatres Corporation to make the new theatre the show place of the state and equal to any theatre in the country in the quality of entertainment which it will present.

Furniture of a French-English type will be placed throughout the new playhouse. Representatives of Publix Theatres Maintenance Department have been on the ground and have already placed orders for the necessary equipment, such as carpets, lobby farnes, drapes, lighting apparatus and other items of this sort.

MADISON TO VOTE ON DRY REFERENDUM

DRY LAW SPONSOR CHARGES THAT CONDITION IN CAPITAL
CITY ARE DEPLORABLE

Madison, Wis., Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—A referendum on a proposed city prohibition ordinance to replace the state dry law repealed this year will be submitted to Madison voters next April. By a vote of 15 to five last night the city council determined to let citizens of the capital decide whether or not they want prohibition enforcement by municipal authorities in addition to federal forces.

Madison voted in favor of repealing the state dry law by a small majority at the state-wide referendum last April.

Alderman George E. Gill, sponsor of the dry ordinance, fought bitterly to secure its passage by the council without a referendum.

Conditions in Madison are deplorable, Gill charged, children are wheeling moonshine about in baby buggies making deliveries, and chief of Police Frank Trostle declares that he "is helpless" when he sees men and women mixing drinks, the alderman said.

Scott H. Goodnight, dean of men at the University of Wisconsin was one of the backers of the ordinance. Gill charged that Madison is giving students no protection and that tax payers of the state have a right to insist on safe environment for their boys and girls attending the university here.

8 FISHERMEN SAVED BY CAR FERRY CREW

Menominee, Mich., Dec. 12.—(U.P.)—Eight fishermen rescued from the frozen surface of Green Bay by the Ann Arbor car ferry No. 7, were safe in port today. The car ferry picked up the fishing boats Florence and Carl late yesterday from a point 10 miles northeast of here where they were fast in the ice. The two boats had been out of port since Tuesday after responding to what they believed were distress light signals from another craft.

PUBLIC CAN JOIN IN T. B. PREVENTION

Seal Sale Receipts to Aid in Caring
Disease Sufferers; Death
Rate Decreases

This penny seal which spreads abroad the good news that tuberculosis is curable and preventable, and raising funds for the campaign to cure and prevent it, makes it possible for every man, woman and child in the nation to have a share in ridding our country of the great white plague, as tuberculosis has been called for centuries.

Tuberculosis death rate has been cut in two in 20 years. Every state in the union has an active anti-tuberculosis association which carries on a ceaseless campaign of education reaching all sections. Over 600 sanatoria and hospitals for the care of tuberculosis patients have been built in the country and 15 of these are in Minnesota. There are more than 600 permanent tuberculosis clinics besides traveling clinics which visit the districts remote from service. Public health nursing has been demonstrated, and thousands of nurses are at work in all county and city schools, and health education has a place of greater importance in the school than ever before.

Fresh air schools and camps have been established to protect children. Medical research work in progress in 19 laboratories in the hope of finding a permanent cure and a preventative for tuberculosis has brought to light many facts that aid in the diagnosis and treatment.

Willing Oak Leaves Meet

(Contributed)

The Willing Oak Leaves met at the home of Mrs. Wm. Ostby Tuesday, Dec. 10.

The purpose of the meeting was to give the third of a series of lessons in the Home Management project under the leadership of Mrs. Laurence McCullough and Mrs. George McKay, also to make the usual Christmas plans.

The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Mrs. L. C. McCullough, in the absence of the club president, Mrs. H. C. Kyo. "America the Beautiful" was sung by all.

All members except one answered to roll call by stating the helps received from the previous lesson. Each member declared that the lessons were both interesting and helpful.

Next a business meeting was held at which time it was decided to send a delegate to the Home Makers short course at the University Farm, St. Paul, Jan. 20 to 25, 1930. Mrs. Edward Laughton was unanimously elected as delegate, all expenses to be paid through the club treasury.

The members voted 100 per cent in favor of donating $5 to the Red Cross as has been the custom in the club in previous years at the Christmas season. It was also decided to donate three Christmas baskets to the county nurse, Miss Caroline Walz, for needy people in the county. And to remember the old and sick in the community with appropriate Christmas greetings. Mrs. Edward Laughton, Mrs. George McKay and Mrs. A. Erickson were chosen on a committee to purchase all Christmas supplies.

At the close of the business session the leaders explained the lesson on Convenient Kitchens.

A number of drawings were passed around showing ideal kitchen plans which had been studied by the leaders and found satisfactory as far as labor savers for the home maker were concerned. The work centers had been conveniently grouped to eliminate drudgery in the preparation and serving of food.

Grouping the equipment and supplies was also stressed as an important factor in eliminating extra steps. The cleaning center should also be located that the least time and effort may be exerted in cleaning up after serving the meals. Push carts and trays aid materially in eliminating steps in both serving and cleaning up after meals.

Each member presented a diagram of her own kitchen and these were discussed as to possible improvements that might be made with little expense or simply through re-arranging kitchen equipment.

Lesson plans were passed around to each member with helpful bulletins on the "Art of Dishwashing," floor coverings and home-made kitchen equipment.

At the close of the meeting a lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. Wm. Ostby. The rooms had been appropriately decorated with evergreen boughs carrying out the Christmas tone and reminding everyone of the fact Santa would soon be here.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Strobel Tuesday, Feb. 4, 1930.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors, the Presbyterian ladies aid and Circle No. 1 for their kindness, flowers and sympathy shown during the loss of our beloved one, Kathleen. MR. WIDING and son.

THE CHRISTMAS SEAL

Copyright 1929—By Edgar A. Guest
What do you think of the Christmas seal.

What do you think? said I
It maketh the Christmas spirit real:
'Tis greater than gifts you buy.
For it proveth better than jewels can
That your heart hath room for a fellow man.

Who giveth a gift to his friend has done
No more than a gracious deed;
But the seal proclaimeth the man as one.

Who giveth to those in need.
For God, who marketh the sparrow's fall,
Giveth not to His friends, but one and all.

So I look at the Christmas seal and say—
"This friend who remembereth me,
Hath also thought of the sick today
Wherever they chance to be.
And he giveth not only to cheer his own,
But to all who hath need, is his mercy shown."

"ATMOSPHERIC"
THEATRE CEILING

Blue Sky Overhead at the New Paramount Theatre of City

When the people of Brainerd get their first view of the interior of the new Paramount theatre, a blue sky will be over their heads. Stars will twinkle down at them and a harvest moon will keep watch. Fleecy white clouds will be seen drifting across the blue expanse.

There will be no danger of sudden showers, however, for this section of the heavens will be the ceiling of the new theatre.

The construction of this "atmospheric" ceiling is now being completed by the Leibenberg & Kaplan Construction Company. According to representatives of the Publix theatres maintenance department, the illusion produced by the artificial sky will be so perfect that visitors to the Paramount theatre will have to take a second look to assure themselves that it is not a real Minnesota sky which covers them. The clouds which will be seen floating overhead will be produced by a newly perfected "effect machine" concealed near the stage.

Interior construction work on the new theatre is now almost completed. The seats which are now being installed have been especially made to fit the slope of the floor. The management states that they will be the last word in theatre seating comfort and are identical to those being installed in large Publix theatres over the entire country. These seats are equipped with noiseless, ball-bearing hinges and are heavily upholstered with velvet. The new Paramount theatre will open Saturday morning, December 21 at 11 o'clock A. M.

MAGNATE'S SON ENDS PRISON SENTENCE

London, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—R. J. Reynolds, 23-year-old son of the late millionaire United States tobacco magnate, has been released secretly from Wormwood Scrubbs prison after completing a five months for manslaughter and sailed for New York, it was learned today.

54 AT MUSICAL CLUB LUNCHEON

First of Series of Noon Day Meetings
Declared Wonderful
Success

MEET ONCE A MONTH

Miss Rebecca Cassell is Speaker; Mrs. W. H. Gemmell, Toastmaster

The first luncheon of the Brainerd Musical club at noon today at the Ransford hotel had an attendance of 54. The towns represented were: Atkin, Crosby, Nisswa, Pequot, Pine River and Brainerd.

The speaker of the occasion was Miss Rebecca Cassell, secretary of the County Child Welfare board who outlined work of the board in the county. Mrs. W. H. Gemmell acted as toastmaster.

The luncheon was the first of a series to be held in Brainerd once a month. It was sponsored by the Musical club through the Courtesy Committee consisting of past presidents. Community singing was led by Miss Georgia Drexler.

SUPERIOR ASKS NEW CUSTOMS COLLECTOR

Washington, Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—Recommendation that Peter Skamser, of Superior, Wis., be appointed collector of customs for the port of Duluth-Superior was made by the mayor and the city council of the city of Superior in a letter to Vice President Curtis, made public today.

It was pointed out in the letter, which was signed by Mayor George E. Dietrich, that, since the creation of the port, every collector has been appointed from Duluth. Charges also were made that gradually all business of the port has been transferred to Duluth, rather than distributed equally between the two cities.

Skamser's appointment, according to Dietrich's letter, is endorsed by Gov. Kohler of Wisconsin, Republican National Committeeman George Vitz and Republican National Committeewoman Mrs. Harry Thomas.

4-YEAR-OLD BOY DIES FROM DRINKING TOO MUCH WHISKEY

Chicago, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Like a grown-up sailorman, Jimmy Rogers used to "go to sea" on the lake steamer on which his father was a sailor, and like many a seafarer, the four-year-old died from too much whiskey. A pint bottle half full of moonshine liquor, remnants of a quantity that had been used to celebrate the escape of the father, William Rogers, when the steamer Wisconsin sank in a gale in Lake Michigan more than a month ago, was Jimmy's undoing.

While his mother was away shopping and his father was out on the lake with his ship, the little boy clambered on a chair and got down the bottle from a buffet.

He drank almost all of it, then fell to the floor gasping. An uncle found him and took him to the hospital where he died.

QUARREL LEADS TO SLAYING, SUICIDE

Houston, Tex., Dec. 14.—(U.P.)—The estrangement of Virgil Crouch, 25, from his young wife, Verna, 20, was said by officers today to have led him to return to slay her, then take his own life. A. S. McCann, step-father of the girl, said Crouch returned here shortly before the shooting and the young couple quarreled.

CHURCH TO PRESENT CHRISTMAS PLAY

Episcopal Church Members to Play
"Why the Chimes Rang" in
Afternoon and Evening

A cast of the members of the St. Paul's Episcopal church will present on Sunday afternoon and evening in the church basement, a charming one act Christmas play—"Why the Chimes Rang" written by Elizabeth Athorp McFadden, adapted from the story of the same by Raymond McDonald Allen.

The afternoon presentation will be for the children of Brainerd, and will start at 3 o'clock. The evening performance for the adults will start at 7:30 o'clock.

There will be no admission charged, although a royalty has to be paid for the privilege of presenting this charming Christmas play.

"Why the Chimes Rang" has an appeal to old and young from start to finish. It emphasizes the real spirit of Christmas and in presenting it, the cast hopes to spread the real tidings of Christmas far and wide.

Everyone is cordially asked to come and see this play.

MAY DEPORT KIN TO LEON TROTSKY

Minneapolis, Dec. 13.—(U.P.)—Dr. R. N. Trotsky, who claims kinship with Leon Trotsky, was under a four-year prison sentence here today and at the same time faced deportation to Russia. Dr. Trotsky, convicted on a charge of performing an illegal operation, will learn Tuesday whether the federal government insists upon his deportation in which event the prison sentence will be invalidated.

"Give mother an extension
telephone," Mabel said

"Pop always gets to reading newspaper advertisements just before Christmas, looking under what to get for a wife to see what to get for Mom. The other night when Mom and Mrs. King went to a woman's club for the evening, Mabel said to Pop, I know just the thing to give Mother. Spill it, Pop said, I'm plumb dizzy trying to decide whether she'd rather have this silk outfit or this electric thingamajig. And don't spring anything that'll cost much 'cause my pocketbook already has had the 18-day reducing diet, said Pop.

"Give her an extension telephone in the kitchen so she won't have to run every time the telephone rings, said Mabel. It won't cost much for the whole year. Are you sure she'd like it, said Pop. Absolutely, said Mabel. Well, I'll call up and order it tomorrow, said Pop, looking happier because it was settled."

To order year-round extension telephone service as a Christmas gift or to obtain additional information, just ask any telephone employee or call the business office of the NORTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY.

The Masked Hostess

by BLAIR STEVENSON

CHAPTER XXXIII.

NATHALIE dreamed that she was somewhere at the core of a huge opaque ball which was whirling around in space.

Next she was in a long tunnel with a dim light at the far end. She began to walk toward the light, which receded at first. Then, as it seemed, the mouth of the tunnel rushed toward her and she awakened.

But she could not see, for a dark bandage was bound about her eyes. Still, she knew she was awake, for she recognized that she was still in an automobile and that the road it was traveling was uneven and the car not going very fast. The voice which next spoke was a real voice, too, not a dream voice. A woman was saying:

"If you'll be good, dearie, and don't make no row I'll be good to you and not ask you to smell no more of the smelling salts. That's all right with you?"

Nathalie nodded and lifted her hands to pull at the bandage which covered her eyes.

"Listen, dearie," said the woman beside her as she drew her hands down from the bandage. "That ain't in order."

"Shut up, Queenie," said the man on Nathalie's other side. "Keep your jaw shut. You ain't been asked to make a speech. Shut that bottle again."

The woman answered him scornfully:

"You don't get no bottle, hop-head. She ain't to go back to sleep again. Didn't you hear her say she'd be good?"

"Not me," said the man. "It was you said it."

"That was good enough for you, then," said the woman and spoke to Nathalie again.

"If I was to say to him that you was a lady and had give your word he wouldn't understand me. No more than if I was talking Chinese. He ain't got no class at all."

The man spoke once more, saying that the bandage about Nathalie's eyes would attract attention and that it was still his belief that the bandage was better.

The woman laughed. "I said you hadn't no class. This bandage is in used to belong to a big actor who killed himself."

"I done just like you're doing," had it built special to take his secrets out in and it don't tell secrets from the street."

However, the possibility of being investigated seemed to find a place in her reflections for presently she said:

"Listen, dearie. If a hick cop muffs, will you stand for it if he tell him you've just been operated on by a eye doctor and are in your way home? If I give you my solemn oath there ain't nothing wrong goin' to be done to you will you?"

Nathalie nodded and asked the woman why she was a passenger in the car and what was going to be done to her.

"Not a thing," assured the woman, "except that you and me is going to take the rest cure till I get further orders and then you're going to be put back in a nice big boat like this and drove home."

"Aren't you arresting me or something?" Nathalie asked in surprise at the information given.

"I thought we were on our way to visit a judge."

The man on Nathalie's other side crowded shrilly at this.

"Certain other bimboes will have to talk to one." He then sigh deeply. "But I won't be in court. From the time I step out of this car I keep right on goin'."

Frontways—not back."

"His nerves is all shot," explained the woman to Nathalie. "If he means is that that fake bank hold-up a little while ago was the rottenest job ever and that all he wants is to get far away from Brookville. He's half right at that."

"It was terrible," growled the man and the woman did some more explaining to Nathalie.

"Yes, it was awful raw. You see, berved along what she knew must be little used roads and the air which came into it was full of the scent of trees. She believed that, of course, the car was proceeding to wherever it was going by the most unfrequented roads of which its driver knew."

The man beside her spoke again after a while.

"Eleven o'clock," he said, "and still keeping on our way. How much longer do we have to keep rolling, Queenie?"

"Shut your head," the woman snapped at him. "You ain't paid to supply no time schedules."

After another twenty minutes the car stopped and the man beside Nathalie said: "Is this the shack?"

"Sure is," said the woman and

BRAINERD OPENS AT PINE RIVER THURSDAY NIGHT

LOCALS ANXIOUSLY AWAIT PERMISSION TO PRACTICE ON NEW FLOOR

PEQUOT GAME POSTPONED; THE DATE OF FIRST HOME GAME INDEFINITE

Brainerd high school will open its 1929-30 basketball season next Thursday night at Pine River. The game was originally scheduled for Brainerd on Friday night, December 20, but since the team has not been able to use the gymnasium it has been found necessary to play elsewhere.

The Pequot game which was set for Saturday night will be postponed for the present for Brainerd has a game to go to Pequot later in the season.

It is not known just when the high school team can practice or when they can have their first home game.

The Brainerd team will play Pine River without a great deal of practice but this is not new since the players were forced to do this last year.

The team that will make the trip to Pine River will be selected from a group that reported when a practice floor was last obtainable and also men who played well in the minor games last year.

There is no way to tell who the newcomers are for there is no way to try them out. However, when practice is opened in the new high school gym everyone reporting will have a chance to try out for the squad.

The selection of men for the Pine River game will be made from the following: E. Foster, E. Foster, Haultala, Guin, Garvey, Schuety, Hoffbauer, Halvorsen, Marshall, Clausen, Mayo, D. Guin, J. Gabiou, Templeton, Ossell and L. Johnson.

Swarthmore Student Wins Oxford Scholarship

William Poole of Wilmington, Del., a student of Swarthmore College, has the distinction of being the only student in the East selected for a Rhodes Scholarship this year. He was one of thirty-one Americans chosen to study at Oxford. Not only is Poole an outstanding student but he is also one of the athletic leaders of his college.
